An international, interdisciplinary forum for rapid publication of original short communications in all aspects of pharmacology...

■ AIMS AND SCOPE

Pharmacology Communications is an international journal publishing original short research reports on all aspects of basic and clinical pharmacology.

The primary objective of the journal is to provide rapid publication of quality research data that will be meaningful to both academic and industrial pharmacologists. Discussion between authors and editors will be minimized - articles will be reviewed and accepted or rejected on the basis of the manuscript submitted. Major revision of articles will not normally be permitted although authors will be encouraged to resubmit articles where appropriate.

■ CALL FOR PAPERS

Papers may be submitted to any of the editors. There are no page charges to authors or institutions. For further information and Notes for Contributors, please contact the Editorial Department (Medical Sciences) at Harwood Academic Publishers.
